

WHAT CHILDREN WATCH

From the Center for Research on the Influences of Television on Children.

You Know...

violent acts are found in many programs that children like to watch.

But... did you know that...

the violence found in cartoons and other commercial programs made for children is much greater than it is in programs made for adults?

And, further more...

Studies show that TV violence makes children more likely to act aggressively when someone makes them angry

TV violence can also make kids believe that...

violence is the best way to settle problems or disagreements.

And last... are you aware that...

Violence is shown with exciting special effects or fast action because those things attract kids.
